Social and Personal

THERE are always several big charitable affairs given every winter that feature largely in the society calendar for the season. The Girls' Auxiliary to the Belle Bryan Day Nursery, which is composed of most of the prominent society girls in town, gives an annual affair that is always looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure by the smart and fashionable people here. Last year they gave a big fancy dress ball in the Jefferson Hotel, which marked one of the most notable gatherings of the winter. Many magnificent costumes were worn, and society from the wife of the Governor of Virginia to the very youngest debutante was present and danced for sweet charity's sake. The ball was opened by a minute in which twenty-four couples participated, and their costumes were made by a big Northern concern especially for the affair. It is not positively known whether the entertainment will be in the form of a ball or a dinner, but it is expected that a certain date has been announced. Yet, but whatever the date and whatever the choice of amusement, it is sure to be one of the most brilliant of the many lovely affairs attended by fashionable people.

For Miss Bertrand. Mrs. Stuart Rowe, of 1615 West Main Street, entertained the debutantes of the season at a tea yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. They were invited to meet Miss Austin Bertrand, granddaughter of Mrs. S. D. Rowe, of Mineola, who is also one of the debutantes. The affair was a very pretty affair, and pink roses were used in slender vases to decorate the parlors and the table. Mrs. Rowe received with the guest of honor, Miss Bertrand, and wore a gown of emerald velvet with a pale pink corsage. Miss Bertrand was gown.

Afternoon Reception.

Miss Lucille Massey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Massey, was hostess of a very handsome afternoon reception at her home, 1007 West Grand Street. The affair was given in honor of Miss Massey's guests, Misses Jane Stanfield, of Atlanta, and Ethel Wedge, of Baltimore, and 176 guests called during the afternoon. The house was decorated throughout with quantities of lovely pink flowers and big vases of Killarney roses and chrysanthemums against a background of palms decorated the parlors, where the receiving party stood. In the library, where Miss Louise Richardson served punch, pink roses again predominated. The dining room was arranged with pink chrysanthemums and palms, and a rustic basket of Killarney roses and pink chrysanthemums was used as a centerpiece for the table. The candles were shaded in pink, and pink roses decorated the mantel.

Mrs. Massey, who received with her daughter and the guests of honor, wore a handsome gown of pale blue and broadened satin, draped in marquisette of the same shade and trimmed in crystal and point lace, with a corsage bouquet of Parma violets. Miss Massey wore a gown of soft white satin, with an overskirt of duchess lace, and carried American Beauty roses and violets. Miss Stanfield wore pale pink mull, draped in pink marquisette and trimmed in real lace and crystals, with a bouquet of Killarney roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Wedge wore a gown of hand-painted chiffon, made over light blue satin and trimmed in old gold and pearls. She wore a corsage bouquet of orchids.

Assisting in doing the honors in the dining room were Misses Helen Gray, Watson, Annie Laurie Haynes, Lucy Beveridge, Marie Kolner, Marie Harwood and Gladys and Sadie Neale.

DERAILS ENGINE, PREVENTS WRECK

Probable Catastrophe Averted by Operator's Prompt Action.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Wilson, N. C., November 23.—The prompt action of the operator in the switch tower at the crossing of the Atlantic Coast Line and the Norfolk and Southern tracks on the outskirts of the city this morning saved Norfolk and Southern train for Raleigh, due here at 5:05 o'clock, from being wrecked, and probably a number of lives.

By throwing his derail on Coast Line train, the engine of that train went off the track about the time Elmer Temper, one of the oldest men in the Coast Line service, applied the emergency brakes. Fortunately the engine and tender only left the tracks, and the passengers received a slight shaking up, and the other train was saved.

Engineer Temper says he slowed down when he came to the first green light, denoting caution, and in this he observed the rules which are intended to enable him to keep his engine under control that he may stop, should the switchmen maintain his second red light. He was confused by a white light, and did not observe the second red light until right on it, when he applied the emergency brakes, but he was too near the open derail, and his engine and the tender went on the track.

Petersburg, Va., November 23.—Very interesting ceremonies marked the day at the R. E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson public schools, the occasion being the presentation by Petersburg Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, of handsome paintings of General Lee and General Jackson, to the schools bearing these honored names. The ceremonies at the R. E. Lee School took place at 11 o'clock, in the presence of the assembled school children, the Daughters of the Confederacy and a large number of visitors. On behalf of the Daughters, the painting of General R. E. Lee was presented to the school by the Rev. E. P. Dandridge, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, and on behalf of the School Board, it was accepted by R. C. Egerton. Patriotic airs—"Dixie" and the "Bonnie Blue Flag"—were sung by the children.

At 12 o'clock at the Jackson School, on behalf of the Daughters, the painting of General Stonewall Jackson was presented to the school by the Rev. Charles R. Strickland, pastor of Tabb Street Presbyterian Church, and on behalf of the School Board it was received by Thomas B. Ivey. Here, too, the children assembled and sang patriotic airs, and here too the Daughters and many visitors were present.

The addresses, both of presentation and acceptance, were highly appropriate. The paintings will be hung in conspicuous positions. The committee of the Daughters who selected them is composed of Mrs. R. T. Meade, Mrs. R. B. Davis and Miss Annie Mann, who did their work well.

MAKE OFFICERS STUDY PROBLEMS

Definite Course for Militia Commanders. Followed by Examinations.

VOLUNTEER CHAPLAIN DEAD

Norfolk and Western's General Manager Opposes Interstate Petition.

Loud and long are the lamentations heard from militia officers all over the State regarding the courses of instruction prepared for them by Captain George F. Baltell, Fifth Infantry, who is on duty with the Virginia Volunteers. The officers fear that they cannot make the examinations which will be held, and on the result of which, it is supposed, will depend the nature of the official reports on their military efficiency.

It is believed, however, that when the officers fully understand the situation, they will be not only reconciled to the study proposed, but will, in fact, be pleased with the opportunity to gain instruction and with the improvement in the service which is aimed at. At present they think a good deal of their time will be consumed, but with the other duties which they will be held to, it is not thought the duties will interfere with any one's private business.

The course includes infantry drill regulations, manual for privates, the rifle, rifle firing, sentinels, marches, advance and rear guard, combat and care of health.

Two examinations will be held by boards to be appointed by the regimental commanders. One will be held between February 10 and 24, 1912, and the other between April 29 and May 19, 1912. Those attaining an average of at least 70 per cent. on these examinations will be given certificates, and will be exempt from further attendance at school or examination on the theoretical part of such subjects.

Map reading is now being carried on, and will be studied until December 1.

He was commissioned July 1, 1908.

The burial will be at Stafford Court-house to-day. Colonel R. E. Feely, commanding Second Infantry, reported the death by telegram.

MR. MAHER ON STAND

Hearing Continues on Petition of Interstate Railroad.

Most of yesterday's session of the State Corporation Commission was occupied with hearing the evidence of General Manager N. D. forth the needs of his road to the land in question and the reasons why it did not want to dispose of the property. He was cross-examined at much length by J. F. Bullitt, of Big Stone Gap, who sought to show that the purposes of through traffic aimed at by the Norfolk and Western and Louisville and Nashville in developing Norton, had not been fulfilled, and that consequently it was proper to allow the interstate to come in and establish the connections it desires.

The taking of testimony was concluded for the present yesterday afternoon, and the hearing was adjourned to December 5, when Chief Engineer Churchill, of the Norfolk and Western, will be heard from. Yesterday's witnesses included A. H. Reeder, manager of the Interstate; E. J. Prescott, controller of that road; F. H. McNitt, a Councilman of Norton, and A. M. Kilgore, an attorney.

The Norfolk and Western, besides Manager Maher, put on W. S. Murphy, its agent at Norton, while the Louisville and Nashville introduced A. B. Gloster, its assistant engineer.

Secretary Rives B. Hardy, of the United Agricultural Board, sent out yesterday the checks for prizes to counties which made exhibits at the State Fair under the auspices of this board. The money goes into the county treasuries, where it came the expenses of making the exhibits.

SARAH BERNHARDT DENIES SHE'LL WED

Paris, November 23.—Sarah Bernhardt indignantly denies the report that she is about to marry Lou Tellegen, a twenty-six-year-old Flemish actor, who has been playing subordinate parts in her company. When a correspondent called at Miss Bernhardt's house to inquire about the report he encountered a French journalist, who had been on the same errand, making a hasty exit, after having barely escaped having his ears boxed.

Mme. Bernhardt had difficulty in finding words to express her opinion of the "stupidity" of the Boulevard gossip credits the great actress with always having a youthful attendant on whom she lavishes her generosity.
